NEW STAR TREK SERIES - STAR TREK DISCOVERY

It is here, at last, a new Star Trek series. Not knowing what to expect two new episodes emerged on Netflix. The opening music was unimpressive, non-dynamic, and forgetful. The main characters appeared as the Captain and Number One and a strange new science officer. Then the action started with a conflict between them as the Klingons became involved. The hostility of their deranged leader soon became apparent as the bitter friction evolved into a fast-moving tempo of contention. The two fleets, Federation, and Klingons faced each other in a hasty and ill-fated battle each trying to blast the other into oblivion. Two main characters died the Captain and the Klingons leader in hand-to-hand combat. Star Trek fans will love every minute and to Netflix and the producers of this new offering, well done. The impressive scenery and special effects were worthy of a top high budget movie. As a personal comment, I watched on an LG 3D TV with the conversion of 2D to 3D. It was incredible as the asteroid belt, and the star-ships' manoeuvres showed fantastic depth bringing reality to a flat screen. May the producers live long and prosper.
